

Save the Date!

WRAN Workshop

Las Vegas, Nevada

Sustainable Rivers in Times of Drought

In partnership with the Red Rock Audubon Society, the Western Rivers Action Network will offer a workshop in Las Vegas, Nevada!

When: Saturday, October 17, 2015, 8:00am - 2:30pm

Where: Clark County Wetlands Park Nature Center,
7050 Wetlands Park Ln. Las Vegas, NV 89122

Workshop Topics

- The Big Picture: A basin-wide view of the Colorado River
- Defining Sustainable Rivers: Examples of functioning ecosystems, broken waterways, and benchmarks of success
- Challenges to Sustainable Rivers: Drought's impact on birds, habitat, and our reservoirs
- Roundtable Discussion: Is water a limiting resource?
- Action opportunities
- ...and more!

Southern Nevada is a critical voice in the West's growing conversation about our shared water future.

We're all in this together - jump in before it's too late.

RSVP to Sarah Luna, lsarah@msn.com

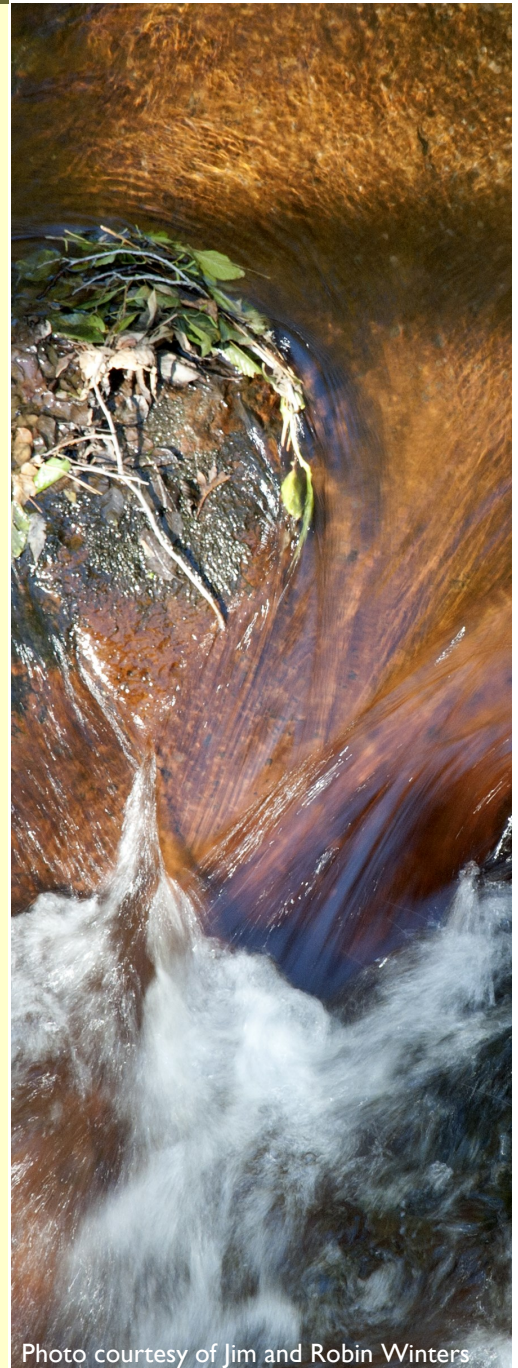

Photo courtesy of Jim and Robin Winters

Audubon's Western Rivers Action Network is working across the intermountain west to raise awareness of threats to rivers, promote conservation actions to increase flows and improve habitat, and advocate for sensible water management policies that benefit communities and wildlife.

Join the Network!

Read our News!

Sign our Petition!

Follow us on Facebook!