

Re: The Western Rivers Brewers' Council

As a craft brewer, I know that an adequate and reliable water supply is essential to great beer. I also know that it is critical to healthy rivers, habitats, birds, and other wildlife. This is why I support Audubon's Western Rivers Action Network (WRAN) and their effort to advocate for conservation actions that will increase river flow, enhance the health of the environment, and restore valuable wetlands and forests across Arizona and the Colorado River Basin.

To show my support, I would like to join the Western Rivers Brewers' Council. By joining, I understand that my brewery ...

- will be a visible supporter of sustainable water management and healthy rivers
- will be asked to share online action alerts, sign onto conservation-focused letters to policy makers, and attend in person workshops.
- will not be required to take part in all WRAN actions. Participation is entirely voluntary.
- will be given the opportunity to market to Audubon's regional, statewide, and national audiences through the WRAN newsletter, Audubon Arizona and WRAN social media, and more.
- will be given the opportunity to showcase our work conserving water and protecting habitat both in the bar and on the ground
- is not receiving an endorsement from the National Audubon Society, Audubon Arizona, or WRAN. All logos, company/organization names, and other licensed marks will only be used when agreed upon by all parties.

I look forward to being part of this coalition of conservation-minded breweries and supporting WRAN's work to protecting rivers across the Colorado River Basin.
